Photos of the Day: Drone Delivery

SCOTT MAYEROWITZ, AP Business Writer

This undated image provided by Amazon.com shows the so-called Prime Air unmanned aircraft project that Amazon is working on in its research and development labs. (AP Photo/Amazon)

Read: Amazon.com Sees Delivery Drones as Future [1]

Read: Amazon.com Developing Delivery Drones [2]

Amazon says it will take years to advance the technology and for the Federal Aviation Administration to create the necessary rules and regulations, but CEO Jeff Bezos said Sunday Dec. 1, 2013, there's no reason drones can't help get goods to customers in 30 minutes or less. (AP Photo/Amazon)

In this Nov. 11, 2010 file photo, Leacroft Green places a package on the belt at an Amazon.com fulfillment center, in Goodyear, Ariz. Amazon is teaming up with the U.S. Postal Service to deliver packages on Sundays. The Seattle company said

Monday, Nov. 11, 2013, that Sunday delivery will be available this week to customers in the New York and Los Angeles metropolitan areas. Amazon and the Postal Service plan to roll out service to "a large portion of the U.S. population" next year, including Dallas, Houston, New Orleans, and Phoenix. (AP Photo/Ross D. Franklin, File)

Source URL (retrieved on 03/12/2014 - 5:46am):
http://www.wirelessdesignmag.com/news/2013/12/photos-day-drone-delivery

Links:
[1] http://www.wirelessdesignmag.com/news/2013/12/amazoncom-sees-delivery-drones-future
[2] http://www.wirelessdesignmag.com/news/2013/12/amazoncom-developing-delivery-drones