

Unlock Your Passwords by Just Standing Next to Your Computer

Emma Hutchings for PSFK

Ogilvy Paris has developed a new app inspired by Ford's key-free technology for unlocking and locking cars. KeyFree Login logs you in to all of your Internet accounts (Facebook, Twitter, email, etc.) by unlocking your passwords when your mobile device is close to your computer. When you move away, it locks them again by logging you out. The hands-free technology works on MacOS computers with Google Chrome and Bluetooth mobile devices. KeyFree Login launched on the Ford France website and is due to go global shortly. Check out the video below to learn more about the app:
