

Skype 6.0 Unveils Microsoft, Facebook Integration in Update

Skype [1] has released a new version of its desktop VoIP client, Skype 6.0, for Mac [2] and Windows [3].\

The latest version includes integration with Facebook [4] and Microsoft [5] accounts, which means users can now log onto Skype using their Facebook or Microsoft credentials.

Users can now also instant message their Windows Live Messenger, Hotmail and Outlook.com contacts using Skype. Audio and video calls to Windows Live Messenger contacts via Skype is not yet available, but Skype promises that it's coming "soon."

Skype for Windows adds six more languages to its repertoire: Thai, Croatian, Slovenian, Serbian, Catalan and Slovak. It also introduces a refreshed UI and improved telemetry.

The Mac version gives users the ability to open chats in multiple windows, and also provides them with Retina display support.

Skype 6.0 for Windows is available here [6], and the Mac version can be downloaded here [7].
