

Cook says iPad Mini with cellular to hit China by end of month

CNET

Apple CEO Tim Cook has promised Chinese customers an iPad Mini with cellular by the end of the month.

Speaking to news outlet Tencent (translation [1]), Cook said the iPad Mini [2] with cellular functionality will be coming to China "in late January." He declined to provide an exact release day.

The iPad Mini with Wi-Fi launched in China on December 7. Since then, the device has proven extremely successful, with Topeka Capital Markets analyst Brian White saying last month that consumers in China and Hong Kong [3] have "an insatiable appetite" for Apple's smaller slate.

Source URL (retrieved on 02/26/2015 - 8:20pm):

http://www.wirelessdesignmag.com/news/2013/01/cook-says-ipad-mini-cellular-hit-china-end-month?qt-digital_editions=0&qt-most_popular=0&qt-blogs=0

Links:

[1] http://translate.google.com/translate?sl=zh-CN&tl=en&js=n&prev=_t&hl=en&ie=UTF-8&eotf=1&u=http%3A%2F%2Fdigi.tech.qq.com%2Fa%2F20130110%2F001059.htm

[2] <http://reviews.cnet.com/ipad-mini/>

[3] http://news.cnet.com/8301-13579_3-57561156-37/ipad-mini-in-hot-demand-in-china-analyst/