This Guy Didn't Steal Your iPhone

Camille Bautista

Hell hath no fury like an iPhone owner scorned, and one Las Vegas man is bearing the brunt of it.

Apple's Find My iPhone app has mistakenly sent dozens of users to Wayne Dobson's North Las Vegas home over the past two years. The problem became so bad, the poor guy posted a sign on his front door that reads, "No Lost Cell Phones!!"

According to the Las Vegas Review-Journal [1], angry people have appeared at all hours of the day, showing Dobson proof of their accusations.

The iPhone-tracking feature, also available for other Apple devices, locates your lost smartphone on a map. For many people, that pinpoint led them straight to Dobson's home in Clark County.
