Test Lab

Electroswitch Electronic Products has recently upgraded its testing facilities with a new test laboratory for comprehensive performance testing, safety verification, catalog verification and life-cycle analysis for its line of rotary and miniature switches. The expansion is the result of Electroswitch's commitment to grow the miniature switch product line acquired from Eaton Corporation in December of 1999. The new laboratory adds approximately 3,000 square feet and the support of a full-time technician to the company's existing test facility, which was used for their rotary switch products.
