

Practice Fusion and Dell to Provide Doctors Affordable Electronic Medical Record (EMR) Package

SAN FRANCISCO and ROUND ROCK, Texas,-- /PRNewswire/ -- Practice Fusion and Dell announce that they will deliver affordable, easy-to-use EMR technology to doctors around the country. The Dell/Practice Fusion packaged solution uniquely serves the needs of the small medical practices, especially those in primary care, that make up almost 80 percent of the physician landscape(i).

These medical practices are traditionally the hardest to reach with new technology, even though they are the foundation for preventative and specialty health care across the US.

The Dell/Practice Fusion packaged solution combines Practice Fusion's free, web-based Electronic Medical Record (EMR) system with Dell's EMR technology hardware suite including desktop and laptop computers, specialized broadband hardware, scanners and printers. The package is ideal for small practices looking for an affordable turnkey EMR solution that is easy to purchase and use.

With Dell and Practice Fusion, medical offices can easily replace paper systems with electronic charting, scheduling, prescribing and lab orders, improving the efficiency of the care delivered to patients as a result. By teaming with Dell, Practice Fusion is giving physicians an easy and convenient way to acquire the hardware they need to use EMR. And Dell continues its focus on improving the accessibility and affordability of information technology particularly at the front line of the healthcare system.

Doctors can acquire the packaged solution easily by:

- Visiting Practice Fusion to order Dell laptops and desktops tested by Dell's verification lab and tailored to the size and needs of their practice.
- Calling Dell specialists at 1-866-DELL-EMR to determine the right combination of computers and wireless systems and choosing Practice Fusion's free EMR as the system component of their order.

When a Dell and Practice Fusion package is ordered by a medical practice, it will receive:

- Three months interest-free financing on the order for qualified users
- Quick online access to the fully-enabled EMR account for every member of the practice
